MGen HA Panet CB, CMG, DSO
(1869 – 1951)

Major-General Henri Alexandre Panet was born in Quebec City on 24 July 1869; he graduated from the Royal Military College in the summer of 1891 and qualified Lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Artillery on 2 May 1894.

In October 1899 Captain Panet was placed on establishment of the 2nd (Special Service) Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment and dispatched as part of the 1st Contingent for service in South Africa; he was to join "C" Battery on its arrival. He was disappointed to learn that his battery would not arrive until March and feared that after Buller's relief of Ladysmith and the surrender of General Cronje at Paardeberg Drift, there would be no opportunity to see action.

His fears proved groundless as "C" Battery, assigned to the Rhodesian Field Force, soon began an epic journey. Panet sailed with his battery from Cape Town to Beira, Portuguese East Africa. Here they debarked and began their march through Rhodesia and the Transvaal to link with Colonel Plummer's forces for the relief of Mafeking. This memorable march was described by Field-Marshal Lord Roberts as "one of incredible rapidity".

Under Panet's direction a fortified camp, named Fort Canada, was built at Rustenberg. Sections of "C" Battery supported small mounted columns operating from this safe haven and made a dozen sorties into the surrounding country. In recognition of his work in this campaign Panet was awarded the Distinguished Service Order.

On return to Canada and promotion to Major in May 1901, he was appointed Staff Adjutant at the Royal Military College. Following two senior staff appointments during the period 1905-1909 he was appointed to command "B" Battery. The battery prospered under his leadership, twice winning the coveted Royal Canadian Field Artillery Challenge Cup.

His promotion of Lieutenant-Colonel on 1 May 1911 was accompanied by his appointment to command the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery Brigade, and as Commandant of the Royal School of Artillery, Kingston, positions he held until late 1916. During his tenure, he took a personal interest of all aspects of training. His brigade was deeply involved in the training of the artillery units of the Active Militia. In 1912, twenty-six field batteries from eastern and central Canada assembled for training at Camp Petawawa. Lieutenant-Colonel Panet supervised the training; his involvement was summed up in the words of a First World War Gunner,

"I can only say that the Canadian Artillery could never have done the job it did without the wonderful pre-war training we had under the officers and gunnery instructors of the RCHA at Petawawa, with such men as Burstall, Panet, Elkins, Boak, Constantine and many others. To them Canada's debt is very great."

The eve of the First World War found Panet in Petawawa with his Brigade. After a quick return to Kingston, they were soon on the way to Valcartier to assist in the administration and training of the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

On 26 August the Brigade was mobilized and on 1 October departed for England to spend a miserable winter on the Salisbury Plain. Lieutenant-Colonel Panet deployed to Flanders with his Brigade on 25 July 1915. After being held in reserve they finally went into action on the Somme in late November. On 24 June 1916 he was promoted Colonel and Mentioned-in-Dispatches. He was to receive this distinction a total of seven times.

In December 1916 he was promoted Brigadier-General and appointed Commander, Royal Artillery 2nd Canadian Division, an appointment he held until April 1919. He was promoted again on 4 May 1921 and served as District Officer Commanding Number 1 District from October 1919 until June 1922 and in the same appointment in Number 2 District from June 1922 to June 1923. He was appointed Adjutant General on 1 July 1922 and retired to pension on 31 December 1930 having served The Royal Regiment for more than 40 years.

Major-General Panet continued to serve The Royal Regiment after his retirement as the Colonel Commandant.

He died in Kingston on 14 August 1951 and was buried with full military honours.

ING OFFICERS REMARKS — REMARQUES DE L'OFFICIER INSPECTEUR

The Cadet Corps put on an excellent parade. Formations, marching, commands were all well executed. It was obvious that all participants were keen and enthusiastic. Dress and deportment was good throughout. The band performed well both during the parade period and the demonstration afterwards. The displays were well organized as was the programme and arrangements for the public. A good show all around.

4. INSPECTING OFFICERS REMARKS — REMARQUES DE L'OFFICIER INSPECTEUR

Turnout, bearing, drill and overall performance were well above average. The enthusiasm that was displayed by the cadets was, in my opinion, outstanding. Display were well prepared and presented.

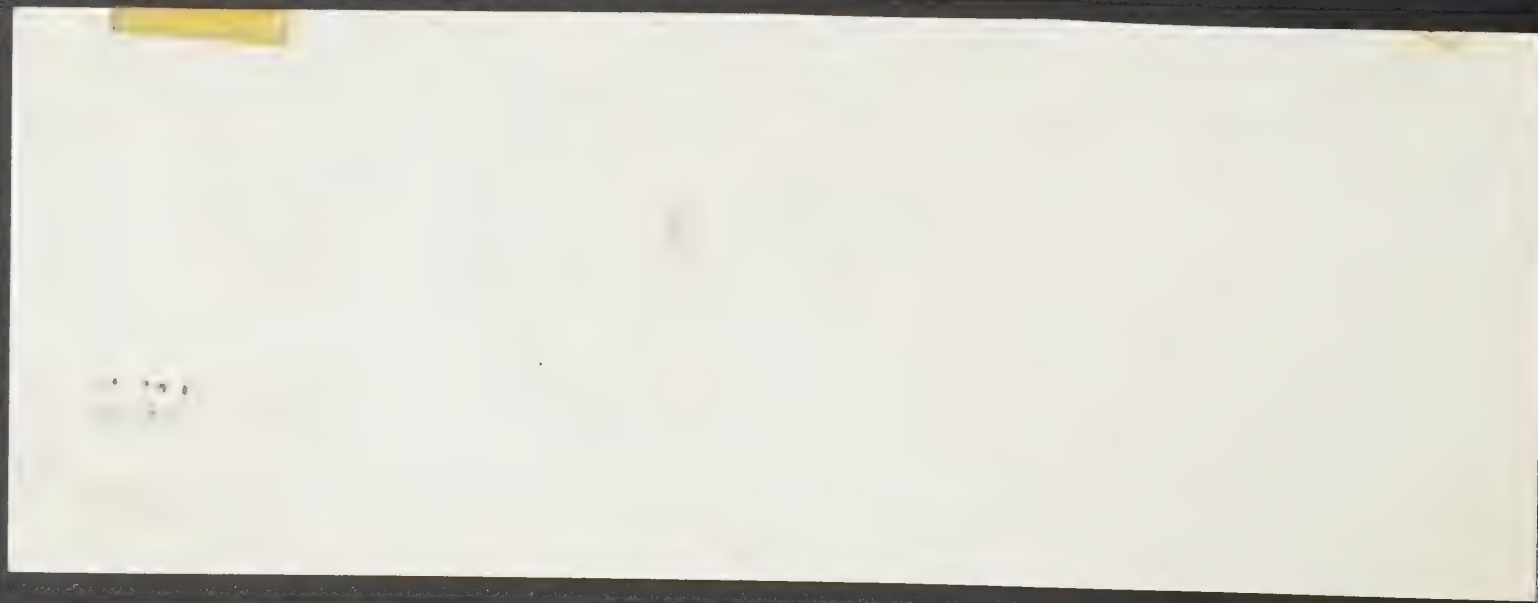

The overall organization of this inspection was excellent.

It was indeed a distinct pleasure to meet these cadets and their parents, who obviously give a great deal of moral support to the cadets.

The Ladies Guild deserve a special vote of thanks for their hospitality.

Dear Dr. Griffith :-

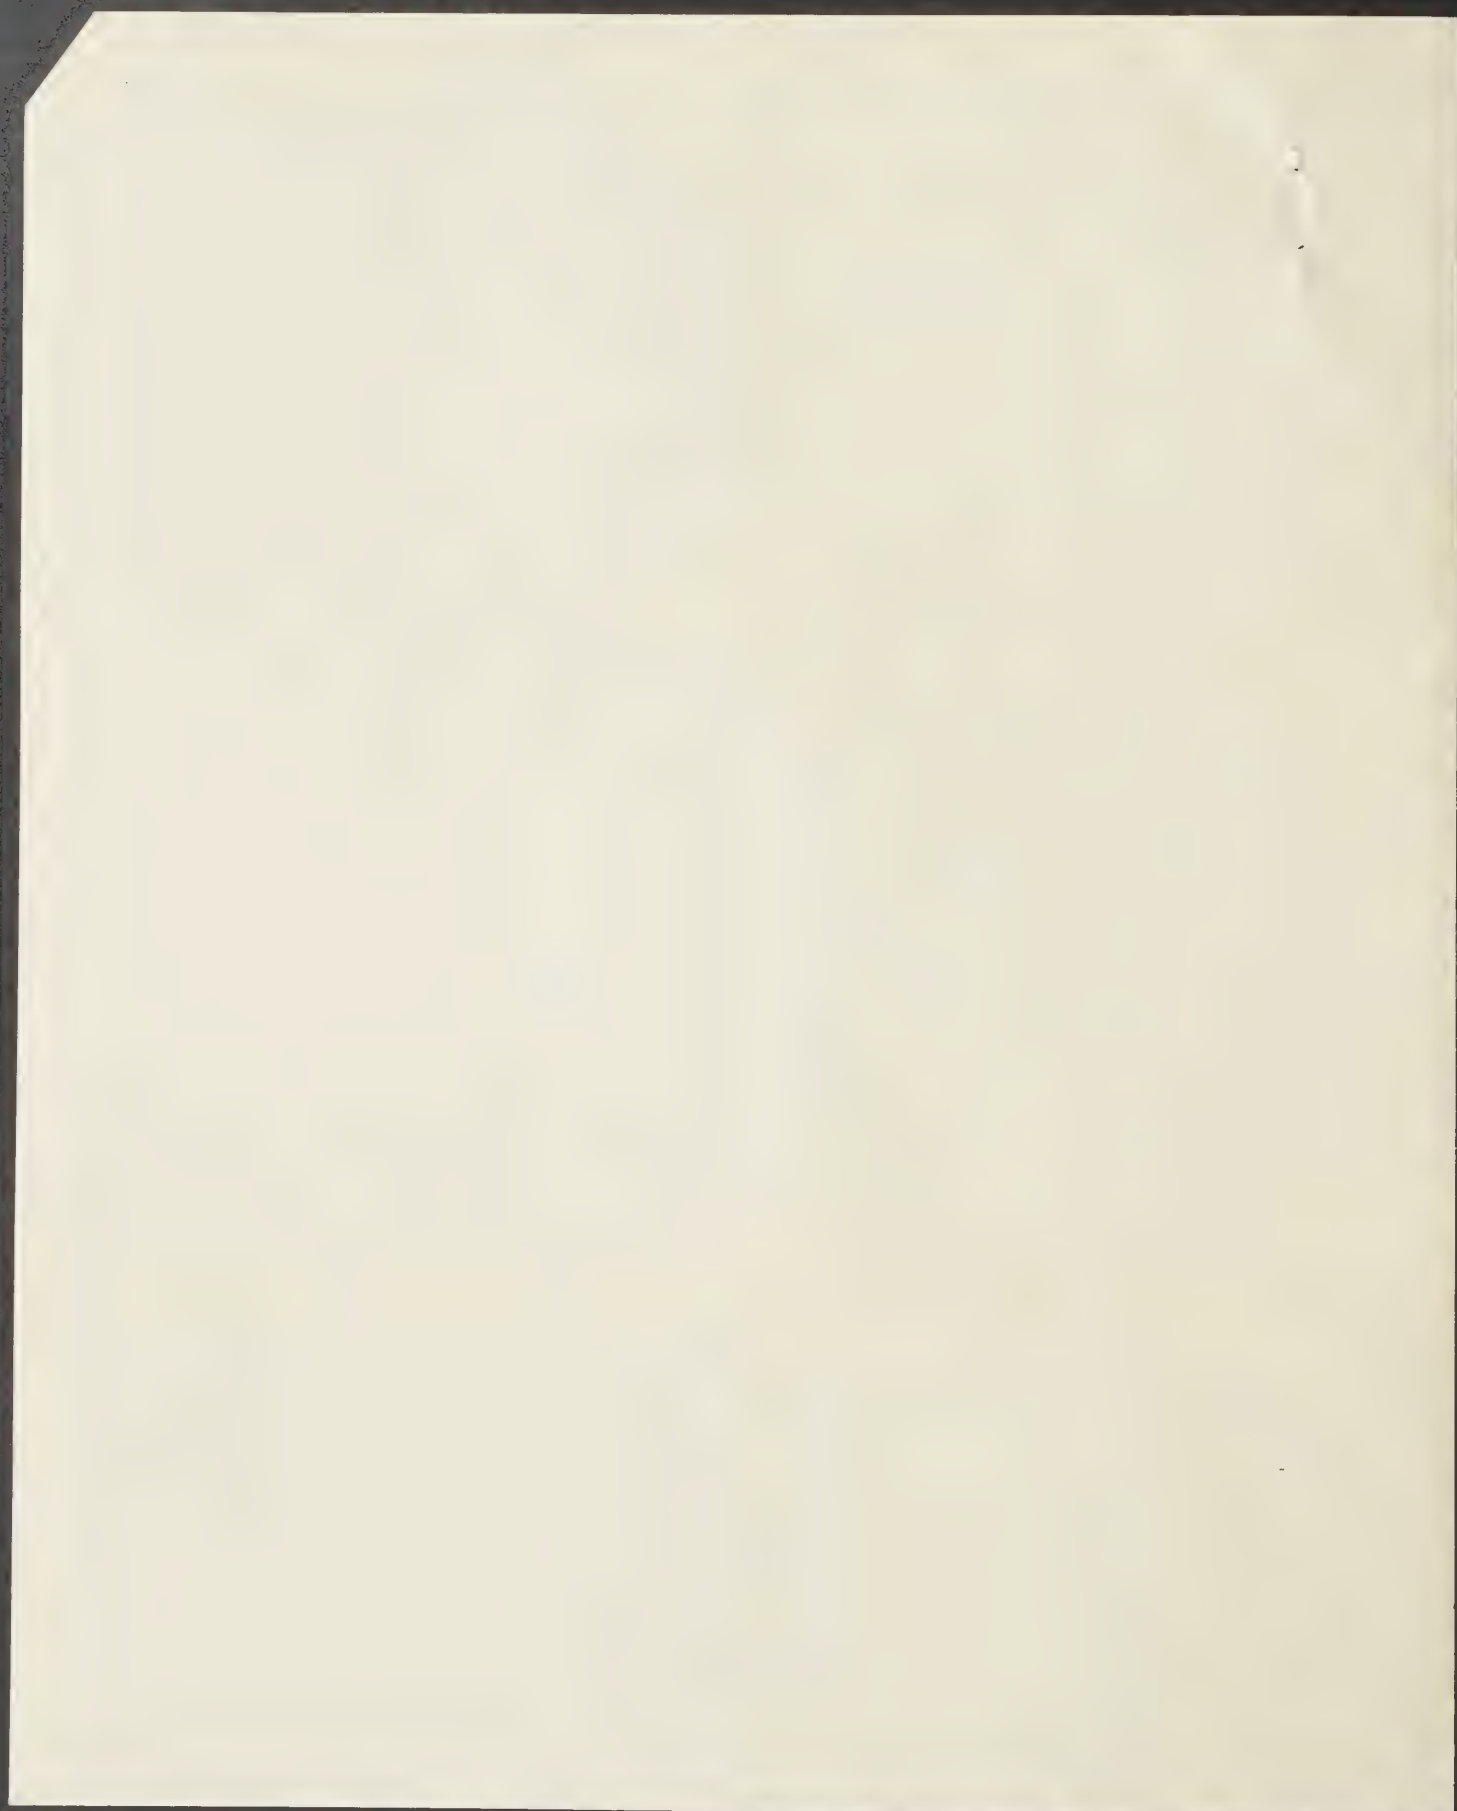

As the official form is necessarily very brief, I am taking the liberty of attaching a copy of a report submitted to the District Officer Commanding by Colonel R.E. Smythe D.S.O., M.C., following the inspection which he carried out at Ridley on May 19th last.

With kindest regards,

Yours very sincerely,

(J.M.Cumming.)

ENCL.

Report on Inspection of Bishop Rifley Cadet Corps
May 1936.
by O.C., 5th Infantry Brigade .

The corps was divided into two companies, one Upper School and the other Lower School - together with bugle band and drums. It was commanded by Major Cassells; the Lower School by a boy named Watson. Captain Iggulden is instructor.

Appearance.

The uniforms of the Upper School company and band are not as attractive as some other units, and apparently have been in service for a good many years. I should think they are past their normal life, and it is my opinion that they should be discarded. Considering this handicap, the unit was indeed smart and well-turned out.

The Lower School wore blazers and white slacks, which made a suitable and effective uniform.

Bearing.

I have seldom seen boys of such splendid bearing. Heads up, bodies erect, and with a steadiness which guards regiments might envy; not a movement was seen during attention periods. There was every evidence of careful training and attention to detail.

I should like to mention especially the Lower School boys who seemed to vie with the older company in their steadiness.

Drill.

Movements were well done, with reasonable precision, and without confusion; responses to command were alert and surely executed. The March Past was reasonably well done, with a quick pace and good swing. The junior company provoked admiration.

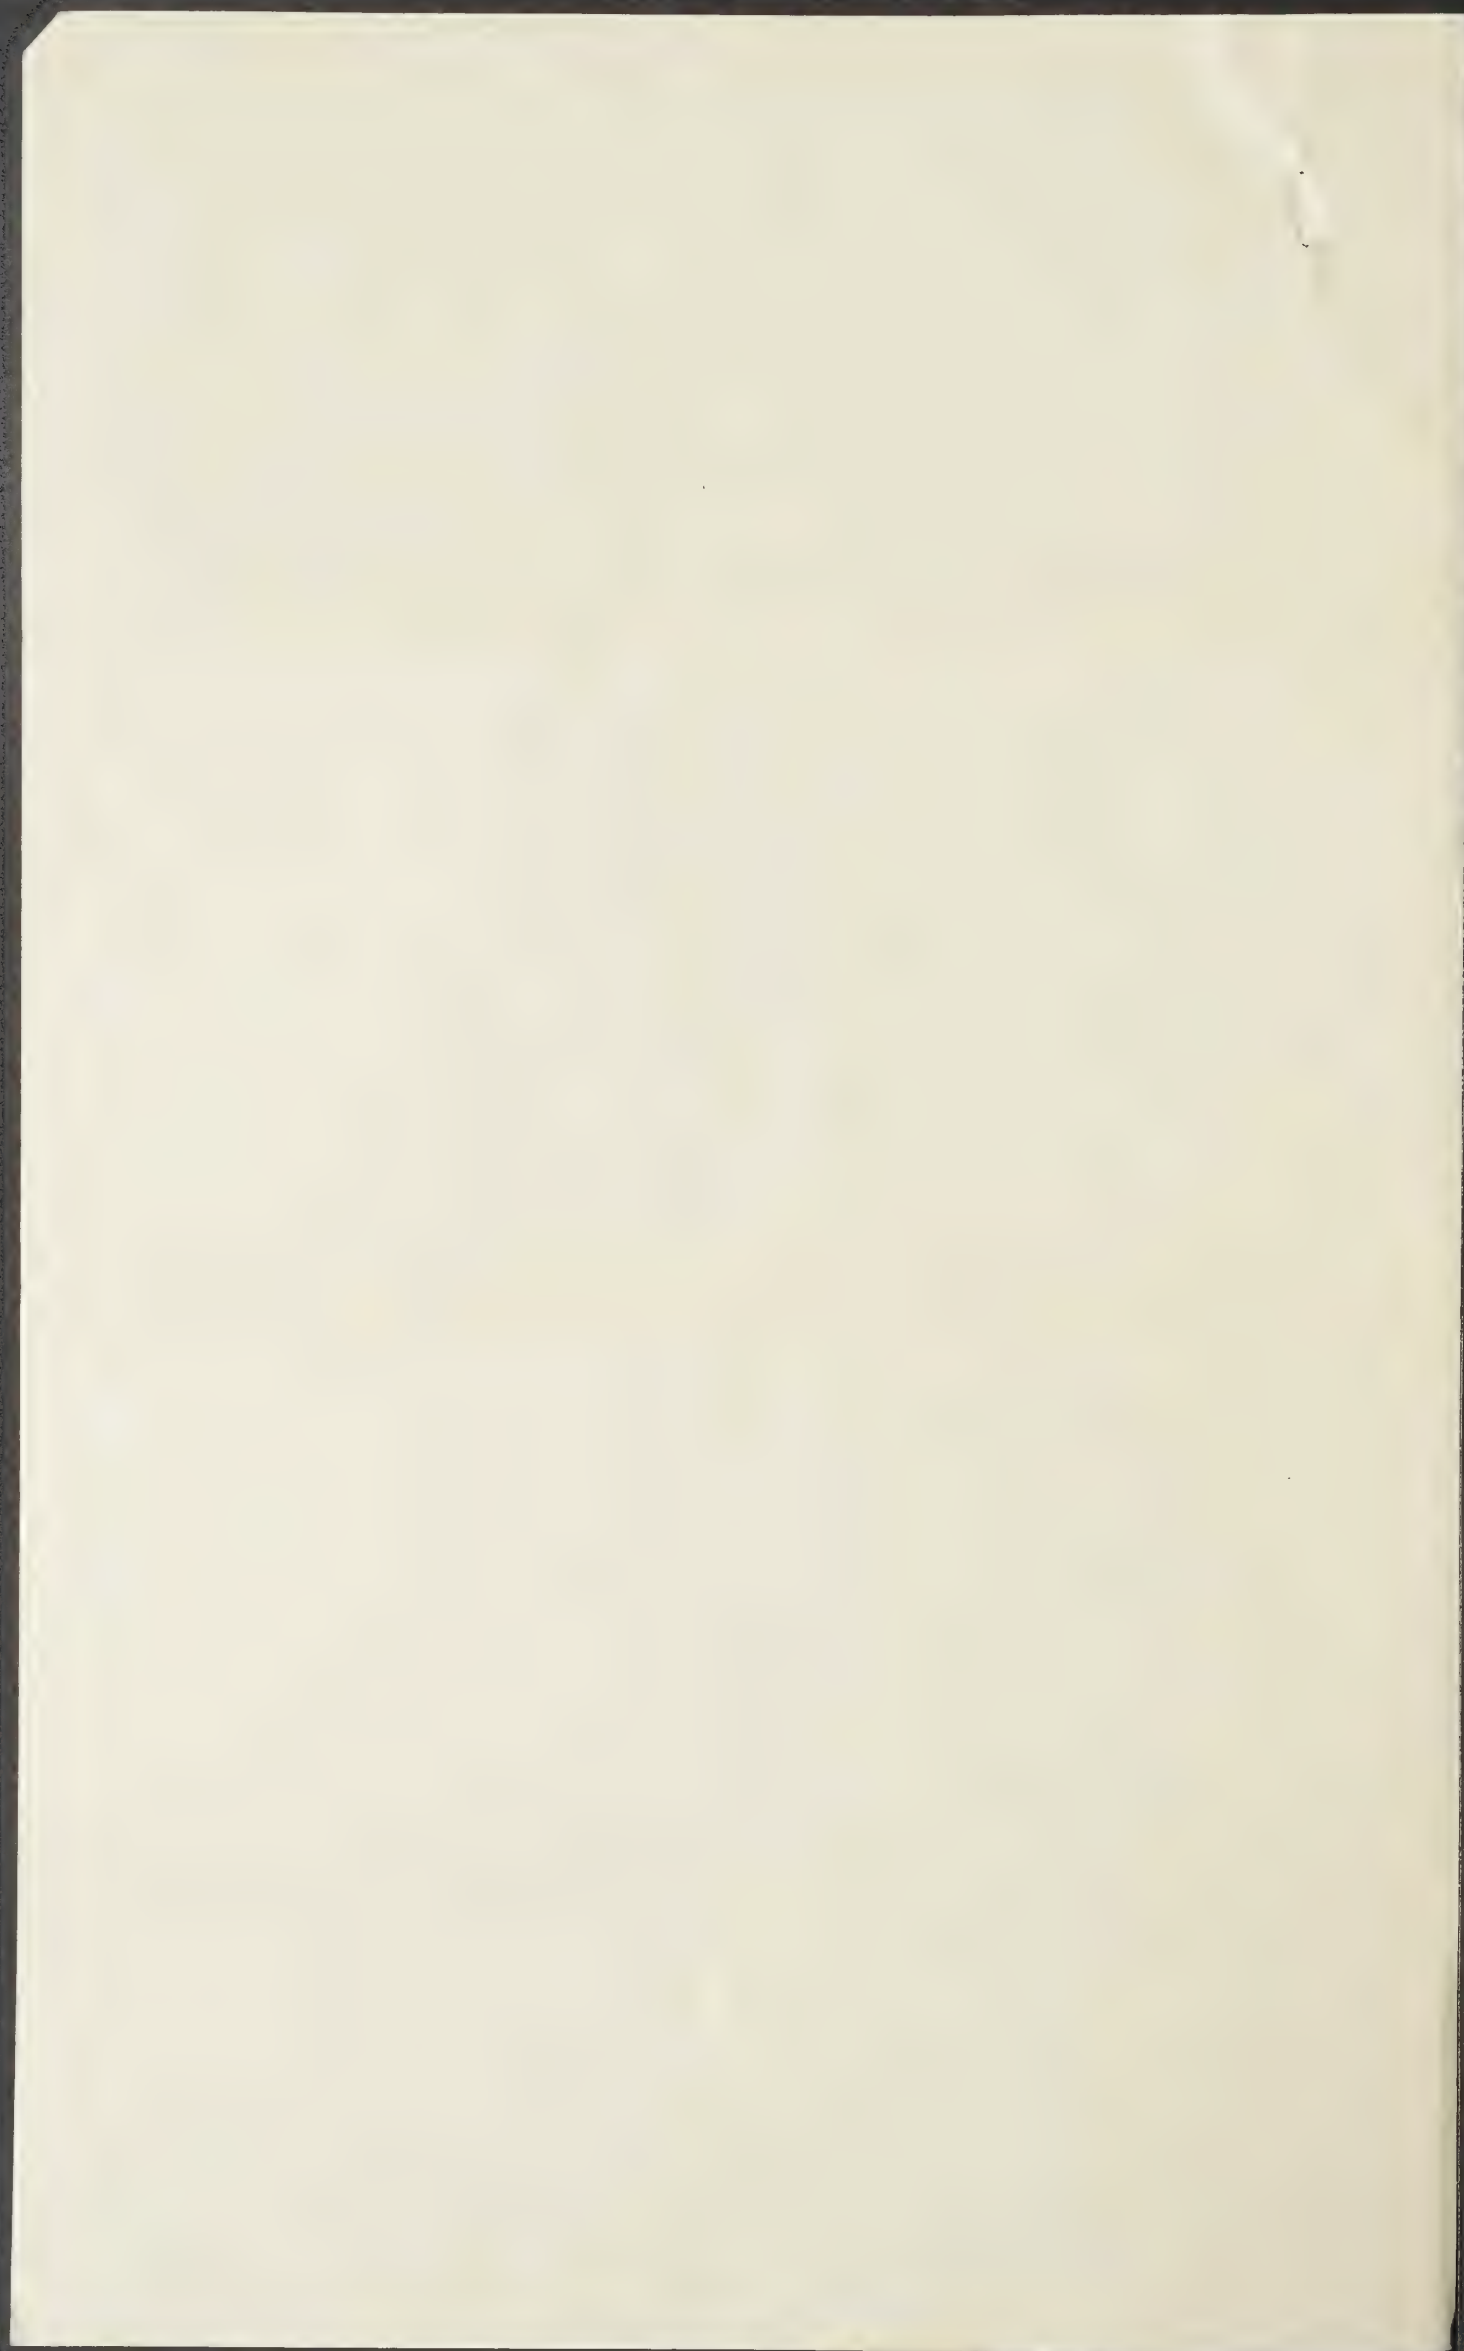

Rifle Exercises.

The handling of rifles was uniformly good, well-timed, alertly executed and steady after movement.

Officers.

The clarity of command of all officers was most noticeable. The Cadet Officer commanding the Corps drilled his company without once moving toward them, and at times was almost across the campus. The words were given with ample warning and with good rhythm, and resulted in even and instant response.

The saluting of Cadet Officers and attention to ceremonial form were most commendable, and gave evidence of careful and sound instruction. I could not help but think that these young men would qualify for Commissions without difficulty.

The commander of the junior company should also be mentioned here for his soldierly movements.

Band.

Excellent; good time and with a verve that only youth can give.

Physical Training.

After inspection, the Corps gave an excellent gymnastic display, in spite of the inclement weather.

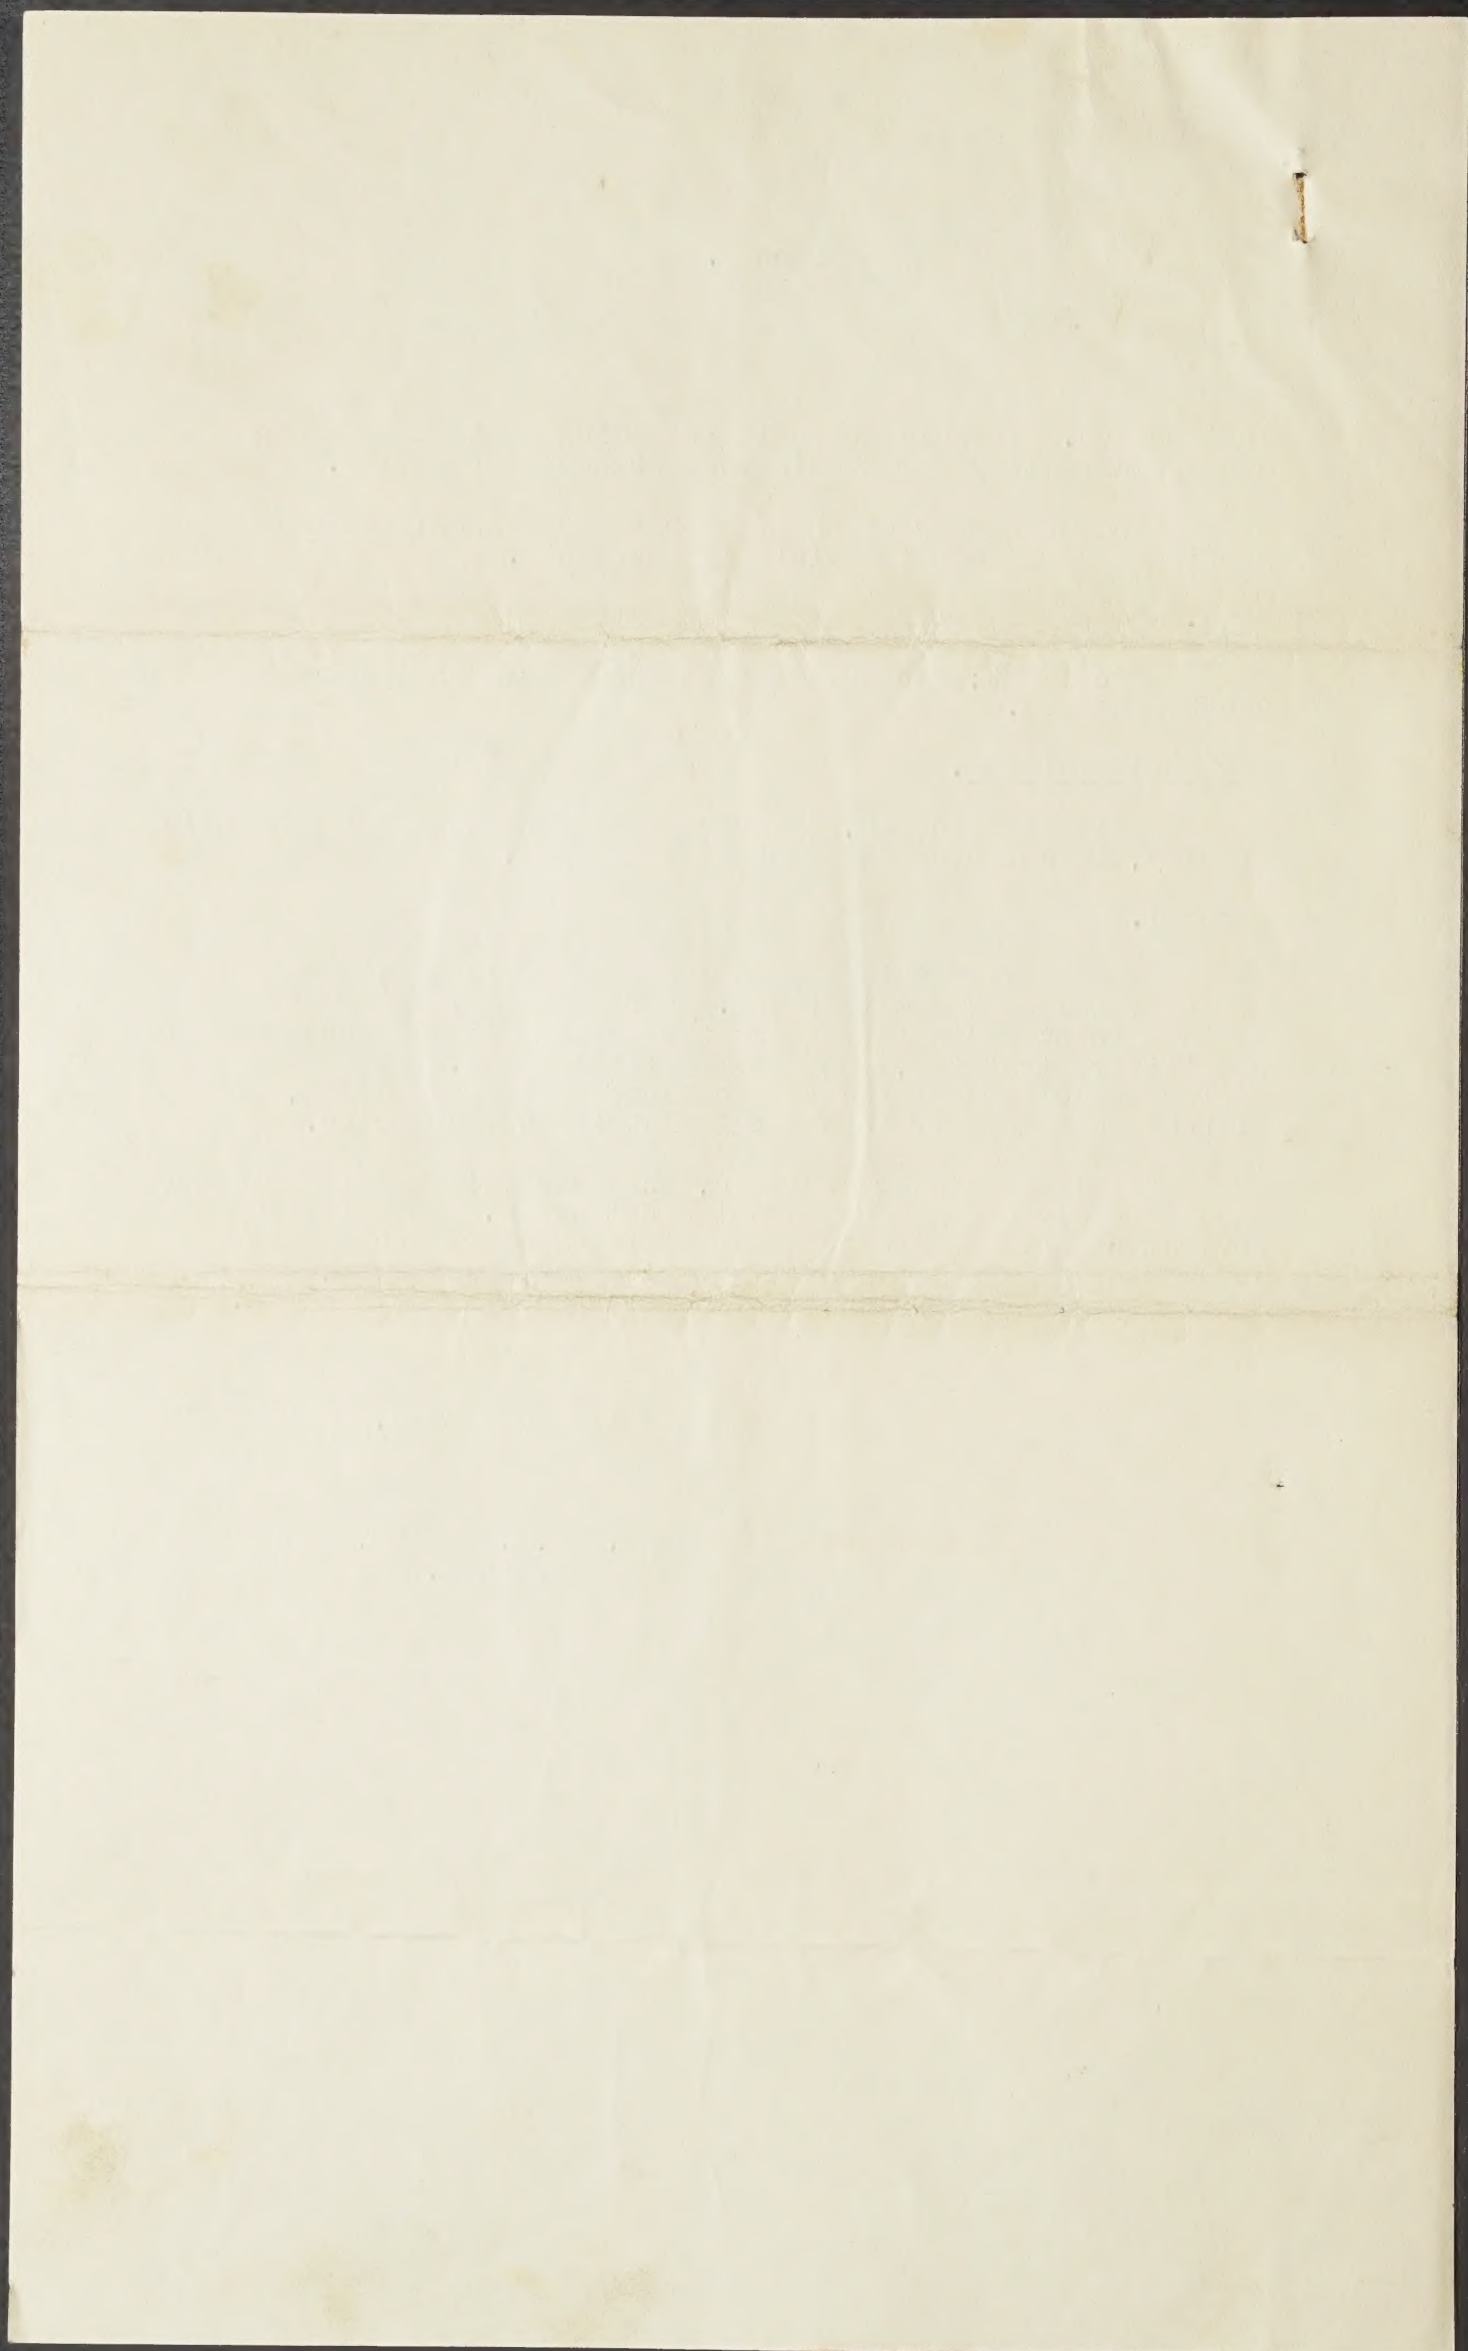

General.

I came from this inspection thoroughly convinced of the value of Cadet training. Here were a large number of the finest youth in the country drilled in the fundamentals of military training, and at very little cost. Most of the senior school are obviously excellent officer material, and without much more training could act in that capacity.

It is my sincere opinion, that more financial assistance should be given to Upper School cadet corps. How else can the Government give as thorough a training to large numbers of young men during the formative period of their lives, and at little cost. It is, too, the feeder of our militia units.

Respectfully submitted.

Sgd. R.E. Smythe.
Colonel.
